

Working Healthy Income & Disregard Activity

1. Angie applies for Working Healthy in July. She is receiving $540 monthly in Social Security Disability benefits as she has been blind since childhood. Angie works part-time at Hallmark Cards and gets paid bi-weekly. She provides copies of her last pay stubs: 6/14=$500, 6/28=$528. Angie verifies her work related expenses as follows: She just purchased a guide dog in June for $1,200. She is making monthly payments of $50. The vet told her to give the dog heart worm medication that costs $15 monthly; the dog eats Science diet food that costs $35 monthly for a bag. Angie pays $250 monthly to A&A transportation for trips to and from work for her and the dog, and Angie pays an individual $40 monthly to translate to braille her company memos and newsletters. What is Angie's countable income?

2. Vickie applies for Working Healthy on 7/10. Vickie receives Social Security Disability benefits of $575 monthly. Vickie also runs a small sewing operation from her home. Vickie has not been in business a full year and has not filed a tax return, so she provides the books from her business for the last three months. Her books show her income: April - $580, May - $610, and June - $550. Vickie documents her expenses and her books verify that they were $40 in April, $32.50 in May, and $28 in June. Vickie requires attendant care in her home in helping her get ready for work each morning and this cost $350 monthly. What is Vickie's countable income?
